Plug-and-Play Visual Template Sheet

Post Structure: 1. Hook (1–2 lines): Shock / Question / Common Mistake 2. Visual/Image: WIP / Collage / Finished piece 3. Anchor Content: Relatable moment + Story insight + Value tip 4. Engagement Question: Prompt comment or poll 5. Hashtags: #WIP #StoryInspiration #RelatableMoments #CreativeTips #StopScroll

Example WIP Template:

😱 Shock Hook: Did you know a tiny outfit detail can completely change a character's personality?

👁️ WIP Peek: [Insert character/story/scene image]

Relatable moment: I spent hours deciding if [feature] should feel "bold" or "cozy". Anyone else overthink choices?

Story insight: This tweak shows [personality/conflict detail].

Tip: Start with one statement element and build around it.

❤️ Engagement: Which vibe do you like best: A or B?

Example Finished Piece Template:

👉 Common Mistake Hook: Everyone thinks bold colors = confident character, but subtle tones often tell the story better.

👁️ Finished Piece: [Insert image]

Relatable moment: Nervous to show work before perfect? Me too.

Story insight: [Feature] reflects [motivation/detail].

Tip: Combine 2–3 textures in same color family for balance.

❤️ Engagement: Which part do you like most: A or B?

Page-Specific Strategy

1. Post the same anchored content you use in groups, but focus on interaction: comments, replies, and questions.
 2. Highlight follower input: "Inspired by @Name's idea, I tried this variation..."
 3. Subtly encourage sharing: "Tag a friend who'd love this!"
 4. DM strategy:
 5. Only DM after interaction.
 6. Reference their comment: "Loved your take on [topic] — your perspective made me think!"
 7. Keep it light, ask questions, follow up every few days.
 8. Build anticipation: occasionally tease upcoming story or site content, so followers look forward to posts.

Key Notes

- Hooks + Anchors + Tips + Questions = engagement trifecta.
 - Rotate hook types daily for variety.
 - Commenting before posting boosts visibility in groups.
 - Responding & DMing builds personal bonds naturally.
 - Highlight audience input to make them feel part of your story.
